Hi Nanda,

Is there any possibility to just use different names for the profiles?

The other alternative is a support case at Microsoft but I don't know how quickly they would resolve it.

Kind regards

Joe

Hi @Dunn, Joe,

We checked again today, and traffic manager is still not available to create in our tenant. Is there anything else we can try now? Requesting your support to Siddaraj on this please.

Thanks & Regards,

Nanda

Hi Joe,

Today I was checking traffic manager status periodically (once every hour) in CZ CIT tenant. But unfortunately, I am still seeing same error. This is just FYI.

Hi Siddaraj,

Microsoft reserve the name for "a period of time" without stating publicly how long this is. You'll need to just try periodically I'm afraid. I've disabled the process so that we don't create it again in the other tenant so it should become available in CZCIT tenant soon.

Note

When you delete a Traffic Manager profile, the associated domain name is reserved for a period of time. Other Traffic Manager profiles in the same tenant can immediately reuse the name. However, a different Azure tenant is not able to use the same profile name until the reservation expires. This feature enables you to maintain authority over the namespaces that you deploy, eliminating concerns that the name might be taken by another tenant. For more information, see Traffic Manager FAQs.

Subject: INC2296879 // Traffic Manager Profiles

Hi Joe, hi Patrick

Patrick and his team got problems to recreate their Azure Traffic Manager Profiles in their subscription.

As the profile name has to be unique in Azure and they were using our naming convention, I checked the CZ Azure environment and found the following ones in the CIT-I subscription.
It seems that they've been captured by your tool to avoid DNS takeover.

Could you please delete them, so the team can re-use the profile names again?

Best regards
Mario
